4th June 2009

Dear Sumita,

It is indeed heartening to know that a team of kevians has won a place of distinction for itself in the Annual Global ThinkQuest Website Competition for the year 2008-2009 by getting placed under the Honourable Mention category. The website entitled "Flying Jewels" succeeded in bringing out yet another deleterious consequence of environmental pollution- gradual extinction of butterflies- affecting the entire planet. I can recall with fond memories the lush green fields abounding in myriad butterflies in my childhood days which have become a rare sight these days. Your role in this collaborative online project associating with the students of other KVs is praiseworthy.

I congratulate you on your success and appeal to you to put in more effort in this direction and bring more laurels to the organization and to your self. I also urge you to reach out to more and more students on virtual networks in creating awareness about preserving the environment in its natural form for our collective existence. May God bless you to march ahead with more confidence.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

Ranglal Jamuda

4th June 2009

Dear Mr. Deb,

It is indeed heartening to know that you have been invited to visit a school in Rme from 4th June to 12th June, 2009 in recognition of your consistent good work on ThinkQuest platform. Harnessing creative potential unleashed by the Information Technology and spearheading collaborative projects involving worldwide student community are the activities that are taking centre stage in school arena and the Kendriya Vidyalaya Sangathan should provide leadership in this direction. Only through untiring efforts of people like you the leadership potential in the KVS shall find manifestation.

I congratulate you on your success and appeal to you to put in more effort in this direction and bring more laurels to the organization and to your self. May God bless you to achieve more success in life.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely,
